PLAY FOR EVERYONE

SWING, SPIN & BOUNCE!

At the heart of any playground you'll find the swings and roundabouts. Tried and tested, they will always be firm favourites!

And these dynamic play features are now suitable for users of all abilities. With the right arrangement and surrounding surfacing, swinging, spinning and bouncing is now available to all! For example, pathways are a great way to guide wheelchair or visually impaired users through a space and it also reduces the risk of trip hazards.

PLAY FOR EVERYONE

Another important factor when creating an inclusive space is to create a neutral area, available to be creative and expressive by all.

Our Folly, Play Castle or Performance Screen offer opportunities for all abilities, including wheelchair users, to create and share equal experiences through role play. These items can also include additional items including art boards, games panels and musical instruments.

COLOURS & GAMES

Great for adding movement, shape and tone to a play area, activity panels also offer an opening for communication.

Children can share experiences through games, puzzles or artboards and, although visually stimulating, they are also hugely tactile. We've designed and built many panels with specific local references or motifs.

THE SOUND OF MUSIC

Musical instruments are a great way to include everyone! And being inclusive means that ALL have access, regardless of ability and age.

Our range of high quality, durable chimes, xylophones and drums are also visually stimulating. Their vibrant colours sit so naturally within flower and herb gardens where the scent brings its own sensory experience.

Ramps and wide slides are more accessible for wheelchair users when assisted. Also, unlike ones made using plastic, metal slides create little or no static charge which can interfere with hearing aids.

Bright colours and contrasting tones create more visibility & stimulation.

Role play areas may help with language & social skills.

Our Folly can be configured with multiple options, including games panels, musical instruments, art boards and sports features.

A quiet corner for sitting or focusing may help some users if the play area becomes too noisy.

Children with hearing loss benefit from low level trim trail items, aiding their balance skills.

INCLUSIVITY, DESIGNED FOR YOU

When designing a truly inclusive play area, consideration for the local surroundings, user requirements and project aims are vital. A tailor-made, bespoke approach is key in creating a space where all ages and abilities can mix and challenge themselves through a range of play experiences.
