LET'S GET MESSY...!

Mud, water, sand, stones, pinecones, leaves, feathers, sticks, building blocks... the list goes on of things to use during MESSY PLAY! And there are valuable lessons to be learned through making and building with the things we find around us.

MUD KITCHENS AND CAFÉS

From an early age, children are fascinated with splashing around with MUD! Either making mud pies or hunting for worms, they can spend hours up to their elbows in it.

Messy Mud Kitchenette

To help in aiding their messy play, we have a growing range of Mud Kitchens suited to pre-school and early years through to juniors.

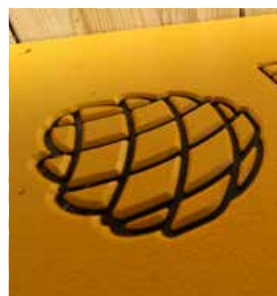

All of our included bowls and funnels are made from stainless steel to offer more durability.

WE'RE GOING FORAGING

Messy play doesn't just include worm hunts though. Children go in search of all sorts of natural collectibles, scavenging beneath the woodland canopy or along beaches.

Other things they can discover might include crayon rubbings taken from rocks or tree trunks as well as from some of our purpose built craft benches and panels. These can be integrated into scientific learning or flora and fauna scavenger hunts!

GROW YOUR OWN

Digging and planting in raised planters can be very fulfilling for children. The sensory opportunities are endless, with some of our planters designed specifically to help encourage wildlife.

Growing plants and vegetables from seed is also a great way to connect children with nature, encouraging them to respect their surroundings and feel proud of what they've created.

MAKE AND PLAY

Stacking blocks to make a bridge or tower, sculpting sand castles or race tracks, chalk doodling on the paving, it's surprising what a pile of wood, sand or chalk can offer to imaginative young minds!
